Connecticut Official Offices Directory 2026

Immigration, identification, tax, vital records, passports, apostilles and Turkish matters, with addresses and phone numbers in one place.

SHORT ANSWER

The state has one USCIS field office and it serves the whole state: the Hartford Field Office at 450 Main Street, 1st Floor. That is easier than most states in this series, because there is nothing to split by zip code. The same street address also houses the immigration court. For everything else the orientation is this: there is no county government, so a marriage license comes from the town's Registrar of Vital Statistics, land records and trade names from the Town Clerk, and the property tax from the town's Tax Collector.

If you are entering a federal building, bring photo identification; there is a security screening and in some buildings your phone is not allowed inside. Be there at least half an hour before your appointment, because the line at the door does not wait for your appointment time. If you cannot attend, follow the instructions on the notice, since simply not going can lead to a denial.

THE TRUST ACT: WHAT IT DOES AND WHAT IT DOES NOT DO

- Source note: this state law section has the firmest sourcing in the series. We read both the statute in force and the amending act in full, and extracted the act's text by two separate methods and compared them. Even so, these lines are not a substitute for a lawyer reading it.
- What it is: the Trust Act is section 54-192h of the General Statutes, and it is not an immigration law; it sits in a criminal procedure chapter titled Detainers. What it does is restrict what state and local law enforcement may do when a civil immigration detainer arrives.
- Its prohibitions: arresting or detaining a person on the basis of a civil immigration detainer or an administrative warrant; giving federal immigration authorities interview access to a person in custody; and performing any function of federal immigration enforcement through a 287(g) agreement or through any other law, regulation, agreement, contract or policy, formal or informal. That last clause closes the informal route as well.
- And in the same breath, what it does not prevent: it does not stop fingerprinting or a federal criminal database query, so an arrest puts your fingerprints into a federal system and that is usually how immigration authorities learn of a detention. It gives you no right to be released; subsection (g) says so word for word. It does not prohibit every information exchange. And it does not bind every public body: a hospital, a town clerk, a school's non-police staff, a housing authority or a benefits office is not within the definition.
- An immigration judge does not count as a judge: the statutory definition names judges of the state and federal judiciary and federal magistrate judges, and expressly excludes an immigration judge.
- It does not bind federal officers at all. This statute is written for state and local agencies.
- The 2025 amendment cut in two directions at once. Public Act 25-29, effective October 1, 2025, added certain enumerated offenses to the exception list, which increased the number of situations in which cooperation is possible; the same act also added an enforcement mechanism, giving any aggrieved person a right of action against a municipality that violates the section.
- If a detainer arrives: the agency must give the person a copy and say whether it intends to comply; if it tells the federal agency a release date, it must promptly give the person a copy of that notice and its written reason for complying. If you are in custody, ask for those documents and keep them.

There are 129 acceptance facilities statewide, and the list above comes from the State Department's own data file rather than from post office pages, which have repeatedly proven unreliable in this project. Post office appointments are booked at usps.com/scheduler; the library facilities are outside the post office booking system and take appointments directly. There is no county clerk here, and Hartford's Town and City Clerk is not an acceptance facility either.

Apostilles: two addresses, do not mix them up

| ITEM                    | AMOUNT OR ADDRESS           |
|-------------------------|-----------------------------|
| Ordinary document       | $40.00 per document |
| Child adoption document | $15.00 per document |

| ITEM                        | AMOUNT OR ADDRESS                                                                                      |
|-----------------------------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Expedited service           | $50.00 per document extra                                                                      |
| If you are mailing it       | Secretary of the State, Authentications and Apostilles, P.O. Box 150470, Hartford CT 06115-0470 |
| By courier or hand delivery | 165 Capitol Avenue, Suite 1000, Hartford CT 06106                                               |
| Telephone                   | (860) 509-6002                                                                                  |

Do not mix up the two addresses. A courier will not deliver to a post office box, and ordinary mail is not wanted at the Capitol Avenue address; a document sent to the wrong address costs weeks, and it is the mistake we met most often in this section. Second warning: the state portal was closed to direct access in this research and the fees above were read from search extracts of the official domain, so confirm before you send. Third: the state health department has a separate apostille route specific to vital records, and we could not establish its requirements or its fee, which means a birth or marriage certificate bound for Türkiye may need that step before or instead of the Secretary of the State step. Call (860) 509-6002 before you send anything and ask which route your document takes.
