SHORT ANSWER

Georgia has one USCIS field office and one biometrics center, both in the Atlanta area, and the Atlanta Asylum Office handles asylum interviews. There are three immigration courts: two in Atlanta and one inside the Stewart Detention Center in Lumpkin. The apostille is not issued by the Secretary of State: the Georgia Superior Court Clerks' Cooperative Authority (GSCCCA) is the only issuer, at 1875 Century Blvd, Suite 100, Atlanta, for $3 per document. There is no Turkish consulate in Georgia; the Consulate General in Miami serves the state. We leave out or flag any address or hour we could not verify from an official source; go to the address on your appointment notice.

Secretary of State (Great Seal)	Does not issue apostilles; it only certifies documents for countries outside the Hague Convention (404-656-2871). Türkiye is a party, so your document goes to the GSCCCA

- Marriage license: both applicants must appear in person. There is no blood test, the license does not expire, and the ceremony must take place in Georgia. A passport can serve as proof of age; a Turkish birth certificate or divorce decree needs a certified English translation. Neither the Fulton nor the DeKalb page lists a waiting period. We are not saying Georgia has none, only that the court pages do not list one, so confirm with the county.
- Apostille: it goes only on a certified copy. Federal documents such as an FBI background check do not go to the GSCCCA; they go to the State Department. An out-of-state document cannot be apostilled in Georgia.
- Birth certificates: ask for at least two certified copies, one for the passport application and one for the apostille. A county office saves weeks over the mail.

Business licenses in Georgia

WHO CAN GET AN ATLANTA BUSINESS LICENSE?

An Atlanta Occupational Tax Certificate requires a notarized SAVE affidavit and an E-Verify affidavit. Only U.S. citizens, lawful permanent residents, qualified aliens and nonimmigrants lawfully present in the U.S. (E-2 or H-1B holders, for example) can sign the SAVE affidavit; someone without lawful status cannot get the license. An LLC is formed with the Secretary of State on Form CD 030 ($100 plus a $10 service charge), and a trade name is registered with the county Clerk of Superior Court. Being able to sign for the license does not mean you may work in the business: that is a separate immigration-law question.
