School Enrollment in Johns Creek: 2026 Guide (Fulton County Schools)

The schools that serve the city, the online application, the voluntary SSN, which bill counts as proof of address, and the fact that Turkish is not on the district's language list.

SHORT ANSWER

First, the right district: Johns Creek is served by Fulton County Schools, not Atlanta Public Schools, and the city lists the 19 schools that serve its residents with addresses and phone numbers.

Enrollment starts online and then you contact the school zoned to your address; there is no central registration office. The SSN is voluntary with waivers available, and the child's passport counts as proof of date of birth. The real condition is proof of address.

The right district: Fulton County Schools

The city gathers the Fulton County schools serving its residents on its own page and puts the count at 19. One note: the same page says "a total of 11" elementary schools in its text and then lists twelve, so the page contradicts itself. That is why we print no count by level and work from the city's total of 19 and from the list itself. Placement follows the address: the Fulton County Schools attendance zone for your address decides which school you attend, so do not pick a house by a school name. Because the city shares five ZIP codes with neighboring cities, the ZIP does not tell you your zone; run the address through the city's Confirm Address tool and the district's "Find My School" tool.

The elementary schools are listed separately on the city's page with addresses and phone numbers: Abbotts Hill, Barnwell, Dolvin, Findley Oaks, Hillside, Lake Windward, Medlock Bridge, Northwood, Ocee, Shakerag, State Bridge Crossing and Wilson Creek. The district also runs a virtual campus (Fulton County Virtual Campus), two charter high schools in Sandy Springs (North Springs and Riverwood International Charter) and an alternative school in Roswell. As a charter option the city points to the K-8 Amana Academy in Alpharetta (285 South Main Street, 678-624-0989), and its schools page also lists several private schools with addresses and phone numbers.

The order of enrollment

- 1 Find your school. Enter your address in the Fulton County Schools "Find My School" tool; the city's schools page also links a map. Do not skip this step in Johns Creek.
- 2 Read the enrollment policy. The district's own order is: read the policy, find the zone for your address, gather the documents, complete the online application, then contact the school.
- 3 Complete the online application. Enrollment runs through the "Online Registration" form in the district's Infinite Campus system, and you upload the documents there. If you have no internet, every school has a computer for registration.
- 4 Call the school. Once the form is done you call the school with your online registration number. There is no registration office for newcomers in Johns Creek, and the district headquarters is a long way south at 6201 Powers Ferry Road NW, Atlanta GA 30339, phone 470-254-3600, so plan to do this with the online form and by phone.

The Fulton County Schools document list

DOCUMENT	DETAIL
☐ Parent ID	The district says "enrolling adults must present proper identification upon enrollment" but publishes no list of acceptable IDs. We could not confirm whether a foreign passport is accepted; call the school or 470-254-3600 and ask.
☐ Proof of address (2 documents)	Both current and in the parent or guardian's name. One must be a utility bill: a monthly electric or monthly water statement ; a gas bill is not accepted . The second can be a mortgage bill, a home sale contract, a current lease, a Section 8 or HUD document, a current HOA bill or a current-year tax bill. The home must be in Fulton County and on its tax rolls.
☐ Social Security number	In the district's own words it is voluntary, with waivers available in most cases; the online form marks the field optional. So enrollment happens without an SSN.
☐ Proof of date of birth	A certified birth certificate or hospital record, a military ID, a valid driver's license, a passport , an adoption record, a religious record, a school transcript, and as a last resort an affidavit of age with a physician's certificate. The child's passport is on the list, which is the most practical document for a family arriving from Türkiye. You get up to 30 days to produce it.
☐ Health forms	Georgia Form 3231 for immunizations and Form 3300 for the eye, ear, dental and nutrition screening. A religious objection goes on Form 2208, which the district publishes in English and Spanish.

DOCUMENT	DETAIL
☐ Prior school records	A report card, a withdrawal form or transcripts; grades 7 to 12 also need discipline records.

PROOF OF ADDRESS: WHICH BILL WILL YOU USE IN JOHNS CREEK?

This rule needs extra care here, because the city does not send you a monthly bill. The acceptable utility bill will be either the Fulton County water and sewer bill or a Georgia Power or Sawnee EMC electric bill. The city's own stormwater bill comes once a year, so it is not a monthly statement and will not do the job; the trash bill comes from a private hauler, not the city. A gas bill is not accepted either. So the practical order is: put the electricity in your own name the day you move in, open the water account too if you can (as a tenant you need the owner to already hold a county account), and start the registration early enough to wait for a first bill. If you have to go before a bill arrives, call the school, ask which alternative they accept and get the answer in writing.

Provisional enrollment and age rules

- If the documents are late the district enrolls the child provisionally for 30 calendar days. A warning letter goes out by day 20, and if two proofs of address are still missing on day 30 the student is withdrawn.
- For general education the child must be 5 by September 1 and not yet 20.
- A child moving to Georgia from another country with the right previous school years can enter kindergarten or grade 1, turning 5 or 6 by December 31.
- Because the Turkish school year starts differently, discuss your child's grade placement at registration and bring English translations of the report cards.

Turkish is not among the languages the district names

- The support side is automatic: a three-question home language survey sits inside the registration form, and if any answer shows a language other than English the child is given the W-APT language screener about seven days after enrollment and placed in ESOL if eligible; in later years the ACCESS for ELLs test is given once a year. The seven-day timing comes from the department's own materials, so do not treat it as a firm commitment.
- On language we have to be honest. The only languages named on the Fulton County Schools language-assistance pages are Spanish, Korean and Chinese, and its written parent guides exist in those three plus English. Turkish does not appear anywhere, so do not assume there will be a Turkish form or a Turkish document.
- An interpreter: for a district meeting an interpreter can be requested in any language, on condition that you email districtlanguageassistance@fultonschools.org at least 72 hours ahead. With less than 72 hours, contact Mayte Lara on (470) 254-6827. For a meeting at the school itself you call the school directly.
- Written translation: the district says translating a document takes a minimum of one and up to five business days, depending on length and language.
- The website translation is machine translation. The district describes the flag-button translation in the corner of the page as automated and apologizes in advance for errors, so do not read the Turkish text on the site as an official source; on anything important, ask for written confirmation. The district's Language Assistance Plan is awaiting approval from the federal Office for Civil Rights, so the process may change. The ESOL coordinator and the language assistance office share a number: 470-254-6827.

Immunization and screening forms

- Form 3231 (immunization): required for every student including pre-K. A medical exemption goes on the form itself and lasts a year; a religious exemption goes on notarized Form 2208.
- Form 3300 (screening): required when a child first enrolls at any grade level, completed by a physician, an authorized health official or the county health department.
- Where to get them: there is no county health center inside Johns Creek; the nearest is at 4700 North Point Parkway in Alpharetta. That center is not free, charging on a sliding scale by income and family size. The same building holds a vital records counter, so you can do both errands on one trip.
- Statewide rule: entering 7th grade requires Tdap and a meningococcal dose, and those 16 and over need an MCV4 booster in 11th grade. Schools may allow up to 90 days for these records.

RIGHTS FOR IMMIGRANT FAMILIES

- Under Plyler v. Doe (1982) every child living in the United States may attend public school regardless of their own or their family's immigration status.
- We found no written guidance on Georgia's own education pages, so if an official insists you may not have a state document to point at. If enrollment is blocked, write to the district office and keep the answer.
- If you are asked for an SSN, point out that it is voluntary and that waivers are available.
- Because the district advertises no Turkish support, make any interpreter request by email and more than 72 hours ahead, and keep the reply.
- Because the parent ID list is not published, get a Georgia license or state ID before registration if you can.
